INTRODUCTION

R. L. POLK & CO., publishers of the Indianapolis City Directory, as well as more than 750 other city, county, state and national directories, present to subscribers and the general public, this, the 1932 edition of the Indianapolis Directory, which also includes Beech Grove, Broad Ripple, Speedway City, University Heights and Woodruff Place.

Confidence in the continued growth of Indianapolis' industry, population and wealth, and in the advancement of its civic and social activities, will be created as sections of this directory are consulted, for the directory is a mirror truly reflecting Indianapolis to the world.

The enviable position occupied by R. L. POLK & CO.'S directories in the estimation of the public throughout the country, has been established by rendering the best in directory service. With an unrivaled organization, and having the courteous and hearty cooperation of the business and professional men and residents, the publishers feel that the result of their labors will meet with the approval of every user, and that the Indianapolis Directory will fulfill its mission as a source of authentic information pertaining to the community.

Six Major Departments

The several essential departments are arranged in the following order:—

THE MISCELLANEOUS DEPARTMENT, pages 15 to 41, presents a variety of information, such as lists of city, county, township, state and federal officials; post office and public school directories; statistical review; and manufacturing, trade and civic surveys.

THE BUYERS' GUIDE, pages 101 to 228, printed on tinted paper, contains the advertisements of leading manufacturing, business and professional interests of Indianapolis and vicinity. These pages will be found particularly interesting and instructive to substantial purchasing factors. The advertisements have been carefully grouped by departments and are indexed under headings descriptive of the business represented. This is reference advertising at its best, and, as such, merits a survey by all buyers eager to familiarize themselves with sources of supply. The community's activities, in many interesting phases, are authentically pictured. In a great commercial and industrial center like Indianapolis, the necessity of having this kind of information immediately available, is very great, and frequently, pressing. General appreciation of this fact is evidenced by the liberal support the city directory enjoys in the many fields which it serves.

THE ALPHABETICAL LIST OF NAMES of residents, business firms and corporations is included in pages 229 to 1328. A feature of this section is the inclusion of the wife's name in parentheses following that of the husband.

THE STREET RAILWAY AND BUS LINES DIRECTORY is contained in pages 1329 to 1331. Correlation of this section with the Directory of Householders determines the street car or bus running nearest to any given house or intersection.

THE DIRECTORY OF HOUSEHOLDERS, INCLUDING STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE, covers pages 1333 to 1768. In this section the names of the streets and avenues are arranged in alphabetical order; the residences and business houses are arranged numerically under the name of each street and avenue, and the names of householders and business concerns are placed opposite the numbers. A feature of this section is the distinction between tenant-owned and rented homes.

THE CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY is included in pages 1769 to 1921. This department lists the various manufacturing, mercantile and professional interests of the whole community in alphabetical order under appropriate headings. This feature constitutes an invaluable and indispensable epitome of the business interests of the community. "The Directory is the common intermediary between Buyer and Seller." As such it plays no small part in the daily doings of the business world. "More goods are bought and sold through the Classified Business Directory than through any other medium."

Community Publicity

The directory reflects the achievements and ambitions of the community, depicting in truthful terms what it has to offer as a place of residence, as a business location, as an industrial site and as an educational center. To broadcast this information, the publishers have placed copies of this issue of the directory in Directory Libraries, where they are readily available for free public reference, and serve as perpetual and reliable advertisements of Indianapolis and vicinity, for business men, everywhere, realize that the city directory represents a community as it really is.

The Indianapolis Directory Library

Through the courtesy of the publishers of the Indianapolis City Directory, a Directory Library is maintained in their offices at 225 N. New Jersey St., for free reference by the general public. This is one of more than 450 Directory Libraries installed in the chief cities of the U. S. and Canada by members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers, under whose supervision the system is operated.

The publishers appreciatively acknowledge the recognition by those progressive business and professional men who have demonstrated their confidence in the city directory as an advertising medium, with assurance that it will bring a commensurate return.

INDIANA STATE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT

Universally admitted to be the grandest achievement of architectural and sculptural art in the world, designed to glorify the heroic epoch of the Republic and to commemorate the valuor and fortitude of Indiana's soldiers and sailors in the War of the Rebellion and other wars.

Begun, 1887; completed, 1901; dedicated, 1902; cost, $600,000; diameter of plaza surrounding monument, 342 efet 7 inches; diameter of terrace, 110 feet; height of terrace, 16 feet 4 inches; manument foundation, 69x53 feet; depth of foundation, 30 feet; height of monument, including foundation, 314 feet 6 inches; height of monument from street level to top of statue, 284 feet 6 inches; height of Victory statue, 38 feet; shaft at top, 13 feet 3 inches; balcony, 16 feet.

The balcony, 228½ feet above the ground, is reached by an electric elevator or by stairway consisting of 32 flights—324 steps. On reaching the balcony, visitors look over a beautiful panorama of Indianapolis and vicinity—a delightful view, not surpassed anywhere. Below the balcony is a bronze astragal bearing the dates 1861-1865 on the four sides of the shaft. Midway the monument is a second bronze astragal, emblematic of the Navy, and further down, a third bronze astragal, representing the Army. On the east and west sides of the monument are the two largest groups that have ever been carved out of stone—the one on the east representing War, the other, Peace. On th south front are two heroic statues, each cut out of a huge block of stone; one representing the Infantry, the other an ideal Cavalry Scout. On the north front are the Artillery and Navy representatives, same as on the south. On the east and west sides of the terrace are magnificent cascades, over each of which flow 7,000 gallons of water per minute. With eight immense candelabra, carrying 48 arc and 150 incandescent lamps, Monument Place is the most brilliantly and beautifully lighted spot in this country. On subordinate pedestals occupying positions in the four segments, are bronze statues of Gov. Morton, Gov. Whitcomb, Gen. William Harrison and Gen. George Rogers Clark.

Above the entrance facing the south is the inscription of dedication:

"To Indiana's Silent Victors"

SOME OF THE THINGS THAT SERVE TO VISUALIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF THIS MODERN AND PROGRESSIVE CITY IN ITS COMMERCIAL, FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL ASPECTS

THE LOGICAL LOCATION FOR BUSINESS INSTITUTIONS HAVING NATIONAL DISTRIBUTION

Prepared by B. J. Henley, Asst. Industrial Secretary of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce

When Indiana was admitted to the Union in 1816 it became the nineteenth state. Congress adopted a resolution donating four sections of land to the State for its capital. The present downtown square mile, chosen in 1821 as the site for the location of the state capital, after considerable discussion, was named Indianapolis. On this one mile square, at almost the geographical center of Indiana, the city was laid out by the same engineer who designed the street plan of Washington, D. C. Not only is Indianapolis near the exact center of the state of Indiana, but it is likewise near the center of the great Middle West, called the most typically American section of the nation.

Population

The Federal Census for 1930 gave Indianapolis a population of 364,161. It is the capital and largest city of Indiana, and is twenty-first in population in the United States. It is the second largest state capital. Indianapolis has maintained a steady, normal growth in population.

The Bureau of the Census has established a metropolitan district for Indianapolis, having an area of 311.75 square miles and a total population in 1930 of 417,685, of which 364,161 are in the city of Indianapolis and 53,524 outside. The general rule followed has been to include with the central city all surrounding contiguous minor civil divisions having a density of not less than 150 inhabitants per square mile, but to include also any minor civil division of less density, if it directly adjoins the central city or is nearly surrounded by other minor civil divisions that have the required density.

Indianapolis is in the center of and the capital of a state having a population of 3,238,503 in 1930, and is near the population center of the United States. It is nearly in the center of the corn belt and the wheat belt. It is in the center of the Mid-West manufacturing region that produces thirty per cent of the nation's industrial output. In the center of the city is a magnificent circle, surrounded by a street ninety feet in width and one-fifth of a mile around, in the center of which stands a 250-foot massive stone monument erected in honor of the soldiers and sailors of Indiana who participated in the Civil War. Radiating from this circle are four wide avenues affording outlets to all parts of the city. It has been around this regularly-platted area that Indianapolis has grown from a mere village in 1816 to its present population, more than 94 per cent of whom are native-born.

Topography

The topography of the territory surrounding Indianapolis has never hindered the city's growth in any direction, resulting in Indianapolis having grown until it now covers an area of 54.15 square miles. It is a city without barriers.

Climate and Precipitation

There are less than four months in the year in which the lowest daily temperature runs below freezing. Yet summer temperatures do not range excessively high, and are rendered unoppressive by the low humidity which usually prevails. The average January temperature in Indianapolis is 28 degrees, and the average July temperature is 76 degrees. There are times during the summer when as much as 16 hours of outdoor work may be performed without artificial light. The precipitation for the year 1930 was 29.66 inches.

National Market

Finished goods are sold, not to square miles, but to population. So far as theoretical analysis goes, Indianapolis stands supreme as a center from which to serve the national market, either for finished products going directly to the consumer, or for semi-finished goods requiring further manufacture. Indianapolis is already famous as a center for national distribution and is rapidly increasing its prestige in this respect.

This Middle Western district is the heart of the nation's manufacturing activities. Among the first 18 cities in the United States with respect to the annual value of manufactured products, 10 are in this great section of the country. The manufacturing density of this district in relation to its area is five times the average for the country as a whole. The center of population of the United States, the center of manufacture, the corn center and others are located in the immediate center of this area. The territory as a geographical unit is probably the richest and most intensified producing region in the world. Although representing less than 6% of the total area of the country, it contributes 30% of the total manufactured products. It has a population of 25,000,000, or 20% of the total population of the United States.

Trading Radius

Indianapolis is located in the heart of a rich buying market. Few cities enjoy such stability of commerce and industry. Its security is its surrounding farm land, where great agricultural wealth abounds, with 2,000,000 prospective buyers within two hours' ride, over 10,000,000 within a few hours' ride, and more than 60,000,000 within a radius of 500 miles can be reached overnight. The immediate trading radius includes the central portion of Indiana. It extends practically 70 miles in every direction. The business of this district is so closely tied up with that of Indianapolis as to be practically inseparable. To the people living in cities in this district, whether 1,000 population or over 30,000, Indianapolis is the market place. One distinguishing feature of this district is the transportation situation. A network of steam and electric railways, together with numerous motorbus lines, welds this territory in one compact unit. County seats and hundreds of smaller towns and villages around Indianapolis have direct connections with the city. The annual purchasing power of the Indianapolis trading area is estimated to be $750,000,000.

Manufacture

Indianapolis is a city of diversified industries. These are motor vehicles and motor vehicle bodies and parts, meat-packing and slaughtering products, metal and machine shop products, etc. The 800 industries of Indianapolis use a wide variety of raw materials, and turn their finished and semi-finished products into many different lines of consumption. More than 200 different commodities are manufactured in Indianapolis. The city is not dominated by any one industry or one group of related industries. It assures against depression to the city's business interests, which might result from a decline in one industry upon which chief reliance is placed, and tends to alleviate the effects of general business slumps. Diversification has long been recognized as a desirable characteristic of a city's industry.

Trade

The city of Indianapolis itself is a wholesale center of semi-national importance. There are 449 wholesalers and distributors, and 4,920 retail establishments in Indianapolis. The territory has 37 towns of 1,000 population or more, served by these jobbers and retailers. Many of these organizations reach over the entire country. Indianapolis, although 21st in population, is 13th in volume of retail sales.

WHOLESALE

According to a preliminary tabulation of the data collected in the Census of Distribution taken in 1930, the volume of business done by the 449 wholesalers proper located in the city of Indianapolis during the year 1929 amounted to $278,928,925. These wholesalers employed 5,909 men and women, paid them $11,359,702 in salaries and wages, and carried a stock at the end of the year whose cost value amounted to $15,679,275.

In addition to the wholesalers proper there is also a large number of establishments in the wholesale field, such as manufacturers' sales branches and bulk tank stations in the petroleum industry, which operate very much like wholesalers. The total volume of business transacted by all establishments in the wholesale field in Indianapolis in 1929 amounted to $402,360,867. This volume of business was reported by 676 establishments which employed 8,682 men and women, paid them $16,912,911 in salaries and wages and carried stocks, whose cost value at the end of the year 1929 amounted to $21,050,376.

Of the 449 wholesalers proper operating in Indianapolis, 67 were engaged in the farm products (except dairy and poultry products) business and reported a volume of trade of $137,176,221 for 1929. This constitutes 49 per cent of the total volume of business transacted by the wholesalers of Indianapolis. Of the total 676 wholesale establishments of all types covered in this Census report, 449 are classified as wholesalers, 119 as manufacturers' sales branches, 34 as brokers, 31 as manufacturers' agents, 28 as selling agents, 11 as bulk tank stations, 3 as chain store warehouses, and 1 as a district sales office.

Among the 449 classified as wholesalers, 352 are wholesale merchants, 63 are commission merchants, 20 are cash-and-carry wholesalers, 6 are wagon distributors, 5 are drop shippers, 1 is a cooperative marketing association, 1 is an export merchant, and 1 is an importer.

Of the 676 establishments of all types engaged in the wholesale trade in Indianapolis, the largest volume of business is reported by the 72 establishments operating in the farm products (except dairy and poultry products) business, with a volume of $145,549,384, or 36.17 per cent of the total. The next largest volume is reported by the 158 establishments in the food and tobacco products business, with a volume of $90,976,053, or 22.6 per cent of the total. The hardware, electrical, plumbing, and sporting goods business is third in importance, with 72 establishments and a volume of $35,994,736, or 8.9 per cent of the total. Fourth is the chemicals, drugs, and allied products business, with 56 establishments and a volume of $23,582,904, or 5.9 per cent of the total.

The largest sales per establishment are reported by chain store warehouses, with an average of approximately $7,400,000; commission merchants rank second, with average sales per establishment of $1,979,191, while brokers rank third, with $721,133 average sales. Average sales for all establishments in the wholesale field are $595,208.

RETAIL

1930 was below normal, yet retail business in Indianapolis aggregated the vast sum of $220,000,000 plus.

Indianapolis has a population of 364,161, but commercially the city represents a market vastly greater than the Census enumeration indicates because of the thousands of shoppers attracted to the city daily from a large number of communities within a 100-mile radius.

It perhaps will be a revelation to the city that retail business is really "big business," when the volume of business is considered, and also that the retailers give employment to 23,153 men and women.

It is the "pulling power" from outside cities that contributes largely to the great volume of the Indianapolis retail trade.

The report in part follows: "The bureau reports 4,920 retail stores, with a total annual business of $220,456,834, a yearly payroll of $28,381,795, and the full-time employment of 23,153 men and women. The reported number of employes does not include those working part-time, although the payroll of part-time employes is included in salaries and wages. Merchandise in stock at the end of 1929 showed a cost value of $26,643,212.

"The total of 4,920 stores includes 3,543 single-store independents, 217 units of two-store multiples and fifty-eight units of three-store multiples. There are also 472 units of local chains, 176 units of sectional chains and 396 units of national chains. Sales of these three types of chain organizations and four branch-system units aggregate $57,364,211, or 26 per cent of the total retail business, while sales of the single-store independents amount to $140,875,037, or 64 per cent. These figures are based upon reports received in 1930 covering the year 1929.

Food Group Takes Lead

"Leased departments reported by department stores and included in the figures submitted by them are not counted as separate establishments. Those reported independently by their proprietors are shown as separate establishments. There are twenty-four units of leased department chains in Indianapolis.

"The food group takes the lead in this report, with the automotive group second and the general merchandise group third in order of sales.

"Food stores total 1,757 and report sales of $47,246,271, or 21 per cent of the total retail business. Of this number, 1,150 are grocery stores, with sales of $33,731,645, and 236 are meat markets, with sales of $6,337,514. Fresh meat departments are operated in 839 of the grocery stores and several of the meat markets have developed a side line of groceries. Of the 1,150 grocery stores, 707 are single-store independents, with sales of $14,517,895; 249 are local multiunits, with sales of $9,088,304, and 194 are units of sectional and national chains, with sales of $10,125,446. Many bakeries which manufacture their own products are included in the census of manufactures and do not appear in this report, but sixty-three stores selling bakery goods are reported.

"The automotive group, with 769 establishments, does a business of $42,326,052, or 19 per cent of the total retail business. Receipts in fifty-nine motor-vehicle establishments amount to $25,535,745, and sales in 112 accessory, tire and battery stores to $3,882,446. A total of 392 filling stations is reported, with aggregate sales of $8,743,327 in gas, oil, tires, and other accessories. This merchandise is also sold in 188 garages, whose total business of $2,726,088 includes receipts from repairs and storage as well as from sales. Of the 392 filling stations, eighty-two are single-station independents, seventy-seven are local multiunits, and 233 are units of sectional or national chains.

"The general merchandise group, which includes department stores, dry goods stores, general stores, and variety, 5-and-10, and to-a-dollar stores, reports sales of $41,511,701 in 197 stores, employs the full-time services of 5,721 men and women, and pays $6,282,434 annually in salaries and wages. The twenty-one department stores report sales of $32,445,360, while 132 dry goods stores, twenty-one general stores, and twenty-three variety, 5-and-10, and to-a-dollar stores report total sales of $9,066,341. Inventory for the group as of the end of the reporting year totals $7,608,472. Of the forty-four variety stores and general stores, thirty are single-store independents, with sales of $510,248, and fourteen are multiunit organizations, with sales of $5,795,398.

Millions for Apparel

"The apparel group of 263 stores reports a business of $16,848,309, employs 1,981 full-time workers, and pays $2,273,187 in salaries and wages annually. This group consists of sixty-three men's stores, twenty-six women's specialty stores, fifteen clothing stores, forty-six millinery shops, seventy-four shoe stores, two fur stores, one hosiery store and thirty-six other apparel and accessories stores. Of the seventy-four shoe stores, twenty-nine are single-store independents, six are local multi-unit organizations, and thirty-nine are units of sectional or national chains.

"The furniture and household group totals 124 stores, employs 2,065 full-time workers, and does a business of $13,174,589. Furniture stores sell $10,418,060 of this total in seventy-eight stores, while twenty-two household appliance stores account for $1,908,333 of the balance.

"The lumber and building group, with 221 stores and yards, reports 1,236 full-time employees and a total retail business of $12,547,700. This group includes lumber yards, and hardware, electrical, heating and plumbing, and paint and glass stores. Planing mills and similar establishments which manufacture building materials are included in the census of manufacturers and do not appear in this report.

Other Large Classifications

"The 584 restaurants and other eating places in Indianapolis employ 2,108 full-time workers, and do a business of $9,013,618. This volume of business is exclusive of meals served in dining rooms operated by hotels and boarding houses and of lunches served in drug stores. The total payroll of the 584 restaurants and eating places is $1,493,296.

"Other large business classifications shown in detail in this report are drug stores, coal, wood and ice establishments and radio and music stores."

Transportation

The geographical location of Indianapolis, and the topography of the surrounding region, have operated to the city's advantages as a transportation center. The location of Indianapolis places it in the pathway of the country's great east-west traffic flow, and the absence of any hazards of land formation has made the unhampered development of transportation facilities possible. Sixteen steam railroad lines lead in every direction from Indianapolis. Companies having one or more lines serving Indianapolis are C. C. C. & St. L. (Big Four), Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central, C. I. & L., Nickel Plate and Pennsylvania. The Belt Railroad in Indianapolis has direct connection with sixteen entering lines, and insures rapid interchange of traffic from one to another. It swings around the east, south and west sections of the city, and provides switching facilities for hundreds of acres of excellent factory-site property. All switching and wheelage charges are absorbed by the railroads, so that the Indianapolis manufacturer, whether he is located on the Belt or on an individual railroad line, can ship or receive goods via any one of the sixteen lines without cost other than the regular freight charges as established by the Indiana Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

One hundred sixty-five railroad passenger trains arrive and depart from Indianapolis daily. One hundred seventy-five interurban passenger cars arrive and depart each day from the largest interurban station in the world. Four hundred fifty passenger busses operate out of Indianapolis each day.

Indianapolis has also the advantage of electric freight service, which has been developed much in conformity with the boundaries of the Middle Western district. Thirteen electric railway lines enter the city, and are of distinct value to its manufacturers in their contact with the Middle Western market. Rapid freight service has been featured by the interurban companies, and covers points in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, for first, second and third-day delivery.

There are more than 20 motor truck lines operating out of Indianapolis, giving scheduled package freight delivery service and having also the facilities for special contract work.

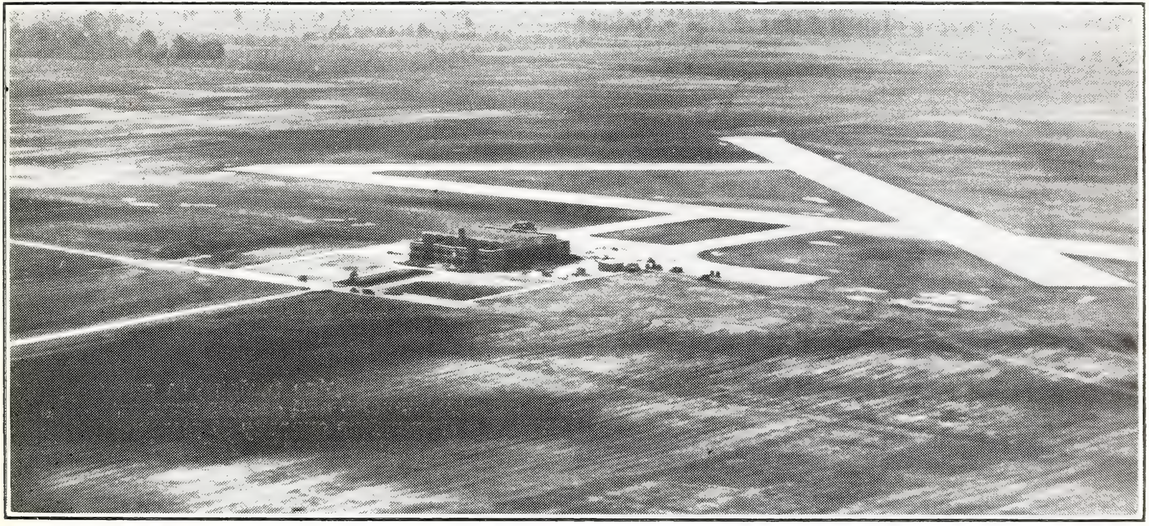
Indianapolis is rapidly developing a comprehensive system of motor coach transportation; 6,523 miles of city streets are covered by 11 motor routes. There are 165 miles of surface street car lines in Indianapolis. The fare is seven cents. Transportation is further facilitated by 16 passenger bus lines which operate throughout the city.

Automobiles

The average number of persons entering Indianapolis by passenger automobile per day is estimated to be 25,000. In 1931, 111,908 licenses were issued for passenger automobiles. Taxicab firm licenses numbered 126. Excellent city paving and connecting hard roads have made automobile and truck transportation an important factor in local distribution.

Aviation

Indianapolis is directly in the line of the safest, swiftest, most direct and most economical airway between the East and the West. There are five landing fields adjacent to Indianapolis. Privately-owned, Hoosier and Capitol Airports; Governmental, Schoen Field at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Mars Hill, which is the National Guard field, and the Indianapolis Municipal Airport.



MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

The Indianapolis Municipal Airport ranks among the largest and best equipped in the entire country. It is located six and seven-tenths miles due west of the center of the business district of the city, and can be reached in from fifteen to twenty minutes. It is just south of the main east and west thoroughfare through Indianapolis, which is U. S. National Highway 40. The port consists of one thousand acres and is one and one-half miles across from east to west and one and one-quarter miles across from north to south.

A $160,000 hangar and administration building houses the following: Control tower, weather bureau, office space for operators, restaurant, Western Union and Postal Telegraph, air mail office, chart room, emergency hospital, ticket office, waiting room and other facilities for handling the public. The hanger is approximately 100x300 feet and is the first unit of a series of hangars and buildings to be constructed in the future. Two concrete runways are two thousand feet long and one hundred feet wide, running north and south and southwest and northeast. The third is eleven hundred feet long and one hundred four feet wide, running southeast and northwest.

The Government maintains a radio beacon station, which is located in the extreme southeast corner of the field. The United States Weather Bureau has installed complete weather forecasting equipment including upper air observation. They are able to give hourly weather reports for all parts of the United States.

The north portion of the airport (107 acres) has been set aside for the development of aviation industries. Industries located on this ground will have the use of one of the outstanding airports in the country. This industrial ground is served by railroad, interurban, bus and truck lines and is in close proximity to one of the best laboring communities in the city.

The Indianapolis Municipal Airport is owned, managed and operated by the City of Indianapolis. The field is for the use of any and all licensed operators of aircraft. Activity in all phases of aviation is encouraged.

Banks

During the year 1931 the bank clearings for 10 Indianapolis banking houses, members of the Indianapolis Clearing House Association, were $853,378,000. Debits, $1,884,722,000. Transactions, $2,735,417,000. Resources of all Indianapolis banks (total, 23) are $238,617,263.

Building and Loan Associations

Total assets of the 58 building and loan associations in Indianapolis as of January, 1931, were $115,366,594. One hundred twenty-five thousand, or approximately 10% of the membership in the building and loan associations of the entire United States, is listed in Indianapolis. Service in the building of 2,234 homes, in the improvement of 1,521 homes, and in the outright purchase of 2,357 homes, was offered in the year 1929. One of the largest building and loan associations in the world is located in Indianapolis, with a capitalization of over $140,000,000, assets of over $60,500,000, and carrying more than 72,000 open accounts. Indiana ranks seventh as to building and loan company assets.

Churches

There are 290 churches in the city of Indianapolis, representing all denominations and nationalities.

Electricity

The local power company has over 125,000 customers. Direct current is available in the downtown business district, known as the "mile square." All other sections are supplied with alternating current. Energy rate runs 6½ cents net per K.W.H. for the first 50 K.W.H. used per month, 6 cents for next 50 K.W.H., 5 cents for next 100 K.W.H., and 4 cents for excess of 200 K.W.H. Rates for industrial power are lower than those of many other cities.

Gas

One of the important requirements of industry is an adequate supply of a refined and controllable fuel. A gas service of excellent quality is furnished in Indianapolis. A total of 78,000 customers was being served with gas in December, 1931. There are 798 miles of gas mains in Indianapolis. Rates are: First 10,000 cubic feet, $1.05 per 1,000 cu. ft.; next 40,000 cu. ft., $1.00; next 15,000 cu. ft., $0.95, etc. Special schedule for consumers of larger quantities.

Water

The capacity of the water company's present facilities is 160,000,000 gallons a day. Pressure is maintained at from 55 to 62 pounds, but is raised to as high as 80 pounds at points of particular fire hazard. The sources of supply are White River and extensive deep wells, with Fall Creek as an available source in case of need. The water supply is passed through a sand and gravel filter bed and is finally thoroughly purified by chlorination. The cost of water varies in accordance with consumption. 71,124 water meters were operating in December, 1931.

Coal

A high grade of steam coal can be obtained from Indiana mines at an average haul of only ninety miles. This coal is quoted as low as $3.00 a ton delivered in Indianapolis. The freight rate is approximately $1.15 a ton. The rate on eastern Kentucky coal is $2.52, and on that from West Virginia, $2.62.

Factory Sites

Indianapolis has in reserve a vast area for industrial expansion. Many acres are available. These districts are interwoven with a network of railroads, including the belt system, affording a great centralized industrial transportation system. Raw materials, transportation, power, labor and market are available in this city.

Foreign Trade

A survey of foreign trade reveals that Indianapolis firms are doing business in every corner of the world and that the total volume of business, imports and exports runs into many millions of dollars. While Indianapolis exports a tremendous quantity of merchandise, manufactured articles and raw materials, certain articles predominate. Among these are automobile accessories, meat products, metal products and machinery, drugs and pharmaceuticals, food products, flour and grain. Imports come from many countries.

Building

New building construction in Indianapolis totaled $9,027,169 in value for 1931. During the year there were 4,727 permits issued. Living accommodations for 653 families were provided in single-family homes and apartment buildings.

Assessed Valuation

The assessed valuation of property in Indianapolis on which taxes will be paid in 1932 is $674,461,890.

Taxes

In 1928 only four cities of the first thirty in population paid a smaller per capita amount of taxes for all state and local purposes than Indianapolis. The per capita here was $46.04. The average for the thirty cities was $55.20. The showing is all the more favorable since the figure for this city includes practically the entire contribution for all state and local governmental purposes, while in many other cities the figure does not include such items as a state income tax, corporation taxes, special business licenses and many other licenses and fees. While local taxation increased from 19 to 30 per cent in each of the states surrounding Indiana between 1922 and 1926, the increase in Indiana was only 14 per cent. A system whereby taxpayers may have a voice in determining public expenditures is a strong factor in keeping the tax burden low in Indiana.

Telephone Service

Indianapolis has 83,988 telephones and on account of its central location in the state and country as a whole, conservative long-distance tolls may be had. Residential phone rate, private line, is $4.50 and business phone, unlimited service, is $13.50.

Recreational Features

Indianapolis has a system of forest preserves which maintains, throughout the city, 25 parks, having a total area of 1,829 acres. Within the complete park system and forest preserves are located 45 playgrounds, 9 athletic fields, 5 municipal golf courses, 6 private golf courses, 5 swimming pools, including one of the largest outdoor swimming pools in the country; 56 miles of boulevards, 5 field community houses, 57 tennis courts, 22 baseball diamonds and 10 football fields, and other facilities, such as saddle clubs, 10 miles of bridle paths, 6 aviation fields, 1 casting pool, 61 horseshoe courts and 3 roque courts. There are also 6 private country clubs and 6 private downtown clubs.

Theatres and Amusements

Indianapolis has 80 motion picture houses, 2 legitimate theatres with a seating capacity of 3,500, 2 vaudeville houses and 1 burlesque theatre. Two large amusement parks afford lively entertainment in the summer months. A motor speedway and baseball park are amusements enjoyed by many thousands of persons.

Education

The educational facilities of Indianapolis provide excellent training in almost any line. With 85 public grade schools, 6 high schools and 27 parochial schools and academies, Indianapolis offers splendid educational advantages to more than 63,000 students each semester. Butler University, including Teachers College and College of Religion, Indiana Central College, Indiana University School of Medicine, Indiana University School of Dentistry, Indianapolis College of Pharmacy, Indiana Law School, St. Agnes Academy, Boys' Preparatory School, Tudor Hall, St. John's Academy, Normal College of the North American Gymnastics Union, John E. Herron Art Institute, Indiana State School for the Deaf, Board of Industrial Aid for the Blind, Indiana State School for the Blind, and other special schools in music, arts and business training are located in Indianapolis. Public schools include 14 for defectives, 1 for truants, 1 for the physically handicapped; 1 opportunity school and 1 fresh-air school. Twenty-three Catholic schools, 3 Lutheran, 1 Seventh Day Adventist, and 40 public kindergartens bring the total of elementary and secondary schools up to 168. The school city of Indianapolis is governed by a commission elected by the citizens. The commission elects a superintendent to have executive control over the school system, and a business director to have similar control of fiscal affairs. Indianapolis is the home of the largest extension branch of the State University, through which is offered training in practically every phase of university work. Butler University, with its present daily enrollment of approximately 1,820, likewise offers extension courses. This institution was recently installed in its new quarters, and promises to become one of the leading colleges in the Middle West. Indiana Central College provides the third distinct institution of higher learning in Indianapolis. The John E. Herron Art Institute ranks high among the country's institutions for the development of the artistic spirit in the people, and holds a charm for the artistically inclined. Its art school is constantly training young artists to continue the work of Indiana's leaders—Adams, Forsythe and Steele. The Indianapolis Public Library contains over 500,000 volumes. Twenty branches are maintained at convenient locations throughout the city. The business branch, in the downtown district, gives special information service to business men. The Library of the State of Indiana is located in the State House in Indianapolis.

Labor

In a large measure Indianapolis labor is thoroughly American. The typical factory employee is reliable, capable and efficient. He is economical and thrifty. He owns his own home, sends his children to school and college, and is himself interested in education. In considering the supply of labor in Indianapolis, one should have regard not only for the supply afforded by the city proper, which is abundant, but also for that of the surrounding territory. On every side are suburbs and small towns with motorbus and interurban service at regular short intervals. Improved roads lead in from every direction. People from points 15 to 20 miles out, work in Indianapolis. The potential labor supply from these sources is great. The relations of employer and employees are strictly harmonious, and conditions are in every way conducive to economical operation. A population of 83.5% native white, 11% Negro, only 5.4% foreign-born, and 1.1 of other races, affords an abundant supply of skilled and unskilled workers, both male and female.

Indianapolis is generally about 95% open shop and non-union industrially and commercially. The main strength of union labor here is found in the building trades, printing trades, and among the motion picture operators, stage hands and musicians.

Out of a total city population now of approximately 400,000, less than 7,000 laboring people are said to belong to the allied central labor union and they are found mostly in the crafts indicated above.

Postal Receipts

The post-office receipts for 1931 were $3,963,059.

Mail Service

There are 77 steam and interurban mail trains in, and 76 out of, Indianapolis every 24 hours. The Air Mail Service offers splendid advantages for those desiring quick communication. In the residential districts there are two to three mail deliveries and up to six collections daily. There are ten to fifteen collections daily in the business section, and four to six deliveries.

Parcel Post

Low-cost parcel post delivery can be had from Indianapolis. The first three or four zones, in which the rates are cheapest, cover the greatest concentrated business territory in the United States. The first three postal zones of Indianapolis embrace all of the states adjoining to Indiana except a small portion of northern Michigan. The fourth zone includes nearly all of the next bordering states. The fifth zone extends from Maine to Colorado and from Canada to Florida.

Homes

Data compiled by the United States Bureau of the Census showed Indianapolis to have 228 homes per 1,000 population. This is an average of less than five persons per residential unit, and gives Indianapolis more homes per 1,000 than any other city over 200,000 population in the United States. It is estimated that approximately 40% of the families own their own homes. According to a recent post office survey there were 101,354 residences and 13,761 apartment units in Indianapolis, a total of 115,115 living units.

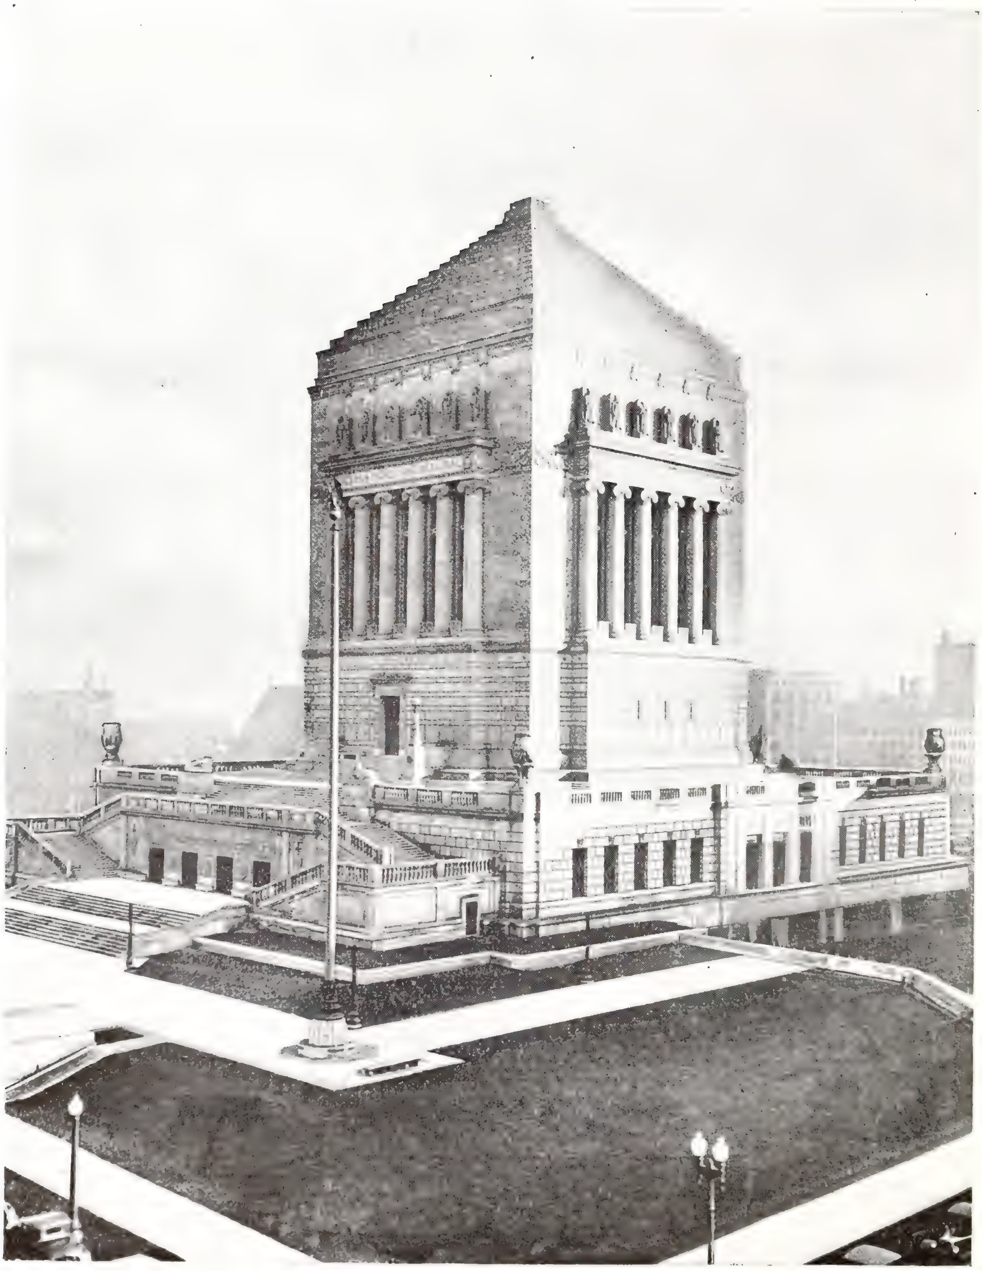
The recent Census credits Indianapolis with 98,841 families as compared with 81,256 in 1920. Marion County is listed as having 113,285 families.

Streets

Streets of Indianapolis are wide, well-paved and level. All downtown streets are 90 feet wide, and Washington Street, which is the leading business street, is 120 feet wide. The movement of automobile traffic has been facilitated by the designation of preferential speedways for passenger cars only. Heavy traffic thoroughfares have been established also, though not for exclusive use. The purpose is to provide through trucking routes from one section of the city to another, and at the same time to divert this heavy traffic from the thoroughfares having passenger car congestion.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, located in the heart of the city, is recognized as one of the finest pieces of colossal sculpture in the United States. It was built in the years 1887-1901, at a cost of approximately $600,000. It is 284 feet high and is the second tallest monument in the United States. The Washington Monument in Washington, D. C., stands 555 feet.



WAR MEMORIAL BUILDING

War Memorial Plaza

The City of Indianapolis, Marion County, and the State of Indiana have joined hands to provide the wonderful Memorial Plaza, which includes five city blocks in the heart of our state capital. The memorial building proper has a base of 180 feet square, with a tower approximately 50 feet square rising to a height of 230 feet. This building—an everlasting tribute to those who gave to their country their services and to those who made the supreme sacrifice—has been constructed of Indiana limestone. The entire Plaza to cover five full city blocks when completed, will represent an expenditure of more than $10,000,000.

Indianapolis Motor Speedway

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway is the foremost brick motor race-course in the world. The annual Decoration Day Sweepstakes attracts drivers and more than 125,000 spectators from all parts of America and Europe.

National Headquarters

More than forty organizations maintain national headquarters in Indianapolis. The American Legion, United Mine Workers of America, International Typographical Union, Barbers' International Union, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Knights Templar, United Christian Missionary Society, National Retail Hardware Association and many others have chosen Indianapolis after an exhaustive investigation of cities of the United States. Twenty-three insurance companies serve their clients from Indianapolis. Greek letter organizations realize the advantages of a central location and six are at this time serving their membership from this city.

General

Indianapolis is located in the center of both the corn and wheat belts of America. This fact has made Indianapolis the second largest corn market in the United States and also one of the leading wheat centers. The Indianapolis Board of Trade is one of the six largest grain markets in the country. More than 36,000 cars of grain were handled last year. The supervision of a business involving $55,000,000 a year is entrusted to this organization. The following were handled through Indianapolis in 1931: 5,263,000 bushels of wheat, 20,664,500 bushels of corn and 10,994,000 bushels of oats. The principal agricultural products of the territory surrounding Indianapolis, in addition to wheat, corn and oats, are dairy products, beef, mutton and pork, fruit, potatoes, poultry and eggs, hay, rye and canning vegetables. These products exceed $250,000,000 annual value. Produce and fruits are raised extensively in the districts surrounding Indianapolis, and furnish raw materials for canning factories and packing and preserving plants.

The Union Stock Yards in Indianapolis is one of the largest markets of its kind in the country. Following are stockyard receipts for the year 1931: Hogs, 1,578,106; cattle, 202,965; calves, 166,095; sheep, 345,107.

One of the largest army posts in the country, Fort Benjamin Harrison, covering 2,415 acres, is located six miles northeast of Indianapolis.

Indianapolis has three daily newspapers, one of which publishes a Sunday edition. In addition to this, a daily commercial newspaper, several weeklies and a number of regular neighborhood publications are published here.

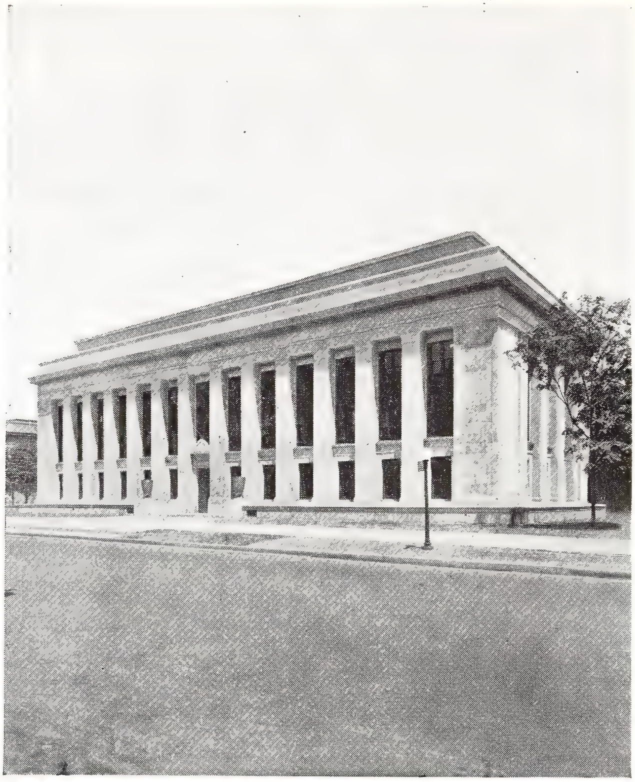
Two radio stations carry the "Voice of Indianapolis" to the world. WFBM and WKBF are, from a civic standpoint, outstanding achievements for the city. The recent Census shows 46,524 radios in the city.

A large municipal market helps to reduce the cost of living in this most ideal residence city.

Funds for the maintenance of the city's charities are secured through the Community Fund.

The achievements of such Indianapolis personages as James Whitcomb Riley, Meredith Nicholson, Booth Tarkington, Thomas R. Marshall, Charles W. Fairbanks, Albert J. Beveridge and Benjamin Harrison speak well for the city's culture and its spirit of endeavor. Indianapolis long will be remembered as the birthplace of many cherished poems known all over the United States as the work of James Whitcomb Riley, the great Hoosier poet.

Indianapolis is characteristically a city of sociability. Pervaded by the well-known spirit of Hoosier hospitality and culture, this city stands high as a social and cultural center.



AMERICAN LEGION
NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Nine Indianapolis clubs own their own buildings. Four of these are conveniently located in the downtown district. Each of these serves a particular function the city's social life and is supported by a substantial membership.

Six country clubs, located in private estates, maintaining swimming pools, golf links and tennis courts, add to the social life of the city.

The slogan, "The Cross Roads of America," is appropriate. Within sixty miles, to the southwest, is the center of population of the United States. At a less distance, to the northeast, is the center of manufacture. The nation's east and west traffic must traverse the level plain extending from the Great Lakes on the north to the Ohio River on the south. A large volume of this through traffic, both automobile and rail, passes through Indianapolis. The National Road and the Dixie Highway cross here. Indianapolis is truly the crossroads.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The one organization in a community which upholds the ideals of good citizenship, right living and active co-operation among individuals and organizations making up the city's life is the Chamber of Commerce. It surveys the community with a telescope to see the whole at once, and, at the same time, with a microscope, to search out the details. In encourages and co-ordinates individual efforts, and takes its prominent place in all worth-while community activities. It spells its mission in life, "Give," not "Get." The Chamber of Commerce is the guide, philosopher and friend of the home city and the community. With this background in mind, any community must thoroughly realize that the efforts of community upbuilding tend toward evolution. It, therefore, becomes of the utmost importance to each of us to realize that the Chamber of Commerce is an organization through which public-spirited citizens in a community may express themselves collectively on questions of community welfare and through which they may make their collective desires effective. Cities do not happen—co-operation builds them. In business, as in life, he gets most out of it who gives most to it. The dividends are based on the investment.

WENDELL'S WIT

A clergyman once attacked Wendell Phillips for causing what he called an unfriendly agitation in one part of the country about an evil that existed in another part.

"Why do you not go South and kick up this fus, and leave the North in peace?" exclaimed the accuser.

Mr. Phillips was not in the least ruffled, but said smilingly, "You, sir, are a minister of the gospel, are you not?"

"I am, sir."

"And your calling is saving souls from Hell?"

"Exactly."

"Well, then, why don't you go there?"

MONEY

By Tramp Starr

Money is a fine thing.
  It will buy a lot—
Palm trees in the winter,
  North lakes when it's hot.
Motor cars and servants,
  Leisure without end—
But could wealth, I wonder,
  Ever buy a freind?

Money is a great thing,
  I would like it fine—
Costly clothes and jewels,
  Rare food when I dine.
Travel, books and pictures,
  These would come with wealth.
But could all my riches
  Ever buy me health?

Money is a grand thing,
  At your beck and call:
It will buy a town house,
  Country house and all:
Lovely folks to talk to,
  Walk with, hand in glove,
But could wealth, I wonder,
  Ever buy me love?

Poverty's a cruel thing,
  Gives a chap the blues,
Saving for the landlord,
  Counting dimes for shoes.
Wealth would bring me freedom
  This I must confess,
But could wealth, I wonder,
  Buy me happiness?

Men of Affairs—

Safeguard their Estates by appointing a responsible Trust Company to act as Executor or Trustee. There is no reason why smaller estates should not be similarly protected. They are in greater need of it—can less afford to incur risk. Any man with property to bequeath to his heirs should take this means of safeguarding them against unwise investment and also avoiding the uncertainties of individual trusteeship due to possible death, sickness or absence. A personal call or correspondence invited.

An institution that has, for forty years, weathered every business depression, every financial flurry, every unforeseen incident—that has adhered rigidly to the policy of far-sighted conservatism initiated by its founder—can well be expected to continue to uphold right practices, to adapt itself to changing conditions, to enlarge its sphere of usefulness to its patrons.

What is the

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU?

The Better Business Bureau of Indianapolis, with a long-established good name and record of service to business and the public, is:

- —One of fifty-two similar co-operating (but legally independent) organizations, located in larger cities throughout the United States and Canada.
- —An Indianapolis institution, maintained by legitimate business to protect confidence in advertising and selling, and to combat, by all lawful means, the sale of fake or fraudulent securities.
- —A non-profit, semi-public corporation, organized under the laws of Indiana and paying no dividends.
- —Supervised by a Board of Directors of twenty-one prominent Indianapolis business men who meet regularly and serve without any compensation whatsoever.
- —Staffed by experienced executives, with no other business connections, and working in close and harmonious co-operation with the public authorities.
- —The recognized source of fact-information—free of all cost to the general public.
- —Non-partisan, non-sectarian, non-political.
- —An organization with a membership roster of over 400 Indianapolis institutions. Financial statement and record of activity open to any proper inquiry.
- —Subject to no "influence" and plays no favorites.
- —The established and trusted Umpire of decent business and the public alike.

Target of those who fear it, "indicted" by those whose past records have been made known, "attacked" by persons or organizations, with plausible titles, it rests on its record—in and for Indianapolis.

The appearance of this Public Service Message in these columns is evidence that this publication subscribes wholeheartedly to the principles of the Better Business Bureau, and co-operates with the Bureau in protecting you—even to the extent of refusing to accept the advertising of firms whose advertising and sales policies are proved to be contrary to public interest.

THIS IS THE MODERN WAY TO HANDLE YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

May we ask you whether, in going over your affairs and in making your plans for 1932, you need additional life insurance for your family or your business, or inheritance taxes? If you have any kind of a problem involving a life insurance question, we will be more than glad to exert every effort to solve it for you, even though you do not desire additional insurance.

LIST OF NAMES

Any Business — Any Locality
Accurate and Up-to-the-minute

WE publish over 700 Directories—City, County, State, National and Trade. We furnish real live up-to-date lists of all trades and professions.

As directory publishers we frequently have available for lists the manuscript copy from which directories are being compiled, and thus you may secure information in advance of publication, a service that cannot be had elsewhere.

We have no trade lists—our information is taken from the latest sources, and above all things, is accurate.

"The DIRECTORY IS THE COMMON INTERMEDIARY BETWEEN BUYER AND SELLER"

R. L. Polk

Locating Missing Heirs
Finding Lost Persons

This is only one of the many offices that the modern directory successfully fills

The directories of the United States form a perpetual inventory of the human element of the nation as well as the business activities.

Police Departments, the country over, rely upon directory information for the location of lost persons. Lawyers and executors of estates are likewise dependent on the information that these "city catalogs" contain.

Real Esate buyers and agents have multitude occasions to refer to the pages of directories of other cities in order that they may have detailed and authentic information on parcels of land and subdivisions in which they have a personal or business interest.

Credit managers have unlimited use for the pages of the modern directory, as have collection managers and agencies.

The uses of the city directory are legion; the information is authentic and the manufacturers and companies that are represented therein are reputable and dependable.

¶ Dr. Johnson, of dictionary fame, said that a man should keep his friendship in constant repair. Paraphrasing the learned doctor, every concern should keep its list of customers in constant repair.

¶ New customers must be obtained to replace those who discontinue because of reasons beyond control. To assist clients in getting new customers is the POLKWAY Mail-List Service. Ask for details.

¶ Dr. Johnson, of dictionary fame, said that a man should keep his friendship in constant repair. Paraphrasing the learned doctor, every concern should keep its list of customers in constant repair.

¶ New customers must be obtained to replace those who discontinue because of reasons beyond control. To assist clients in getting new customers is the POLKWAY Mail-List Service. Ask for details.

INDIANAPOLIS ABATTOIR CORPORATION

¶ Dr. Johnson, of dictionary fame, said that a man should keep his friendship in constant repair. Paraphrasing the learned doctor, every concern should keep its list of customers in constant repair.

¶ New customers must be obtained to replace those who discontinue because of reasons beyond control. To assist clients in getting new customers is the POLKWAY Mail-List Service. Ask for details.

¶ Dr. Johnson, of dictionary fame, said that a man should keep his friendship in constant repair. Paraphrasing the learned doctor, every concern should keep its list of customers in constant repair.

¶ New customers must be obtained to replace those who discontinue because of reasons beyond control. To assist clients in getting new customers is the POLKWAY Mail-List Service. Ask for details.
